EDUCATION IN CITIZENSHIP—Story No. 1.

Helping Citizens to Grow.

Every child who is born is born a citizen

Every day he is learning
somewhere:

from some one:
some sort of citizenship.

Are you satisfied with the product?

67 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Somewhere

In the home. On the street. In the school.
In the church. In the playground. In the "gang."

Has the community done everything possible to make these places wholesome training grounds for citizenship?

From some one

From father. From mother.
From neighbors From teacher.
From preacher. From playmates. From chum.

Are all of these conscious of what citizenship really is?

Some sort of citizenship

Informed or uninformed citizenship? Self-sacrificing or selfish citizenship? Co-operative or competitive citizenship? Militant or non-combatant citizenship?

Is the next generation of citizens to be an improvement on this generation?

If you have any ideas on Education in Citizenship, please write them on the attached card, or in a letter, and forward to the Bureau.
