

Your attention is drawn to the recent press announcement of the retirement of Dr Horace L. Brittain as managing director and secretary of the Toronto Bureau of Municipal Research and as director and secretary of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada and of the appointment as his successor of Mr Eric Hardy, who was recently associated with the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa.

Dr. Brittain has held these positions since the organizations were founded, the Bureau in 1914 and the Institute in 1919. In the field of government, he has made an outstanding contribution in the interest of the citizens and now retires with the esteem and good wishes of all.

Mr. Hardy brings to his new work an excellent training in public administration and experience in both the Provincial and Dominion public service.
